There are a lew remedies known to the Medical Profession which will remove the: Rheumatic Poison from the blood, but whose action is so powerful in depressing the sys-tem of the already enfectied Rheumatic pa-tient, that their use has to be abandoned before specific effects are obtainable, hence the want of success in treating this prevalent, and in consequence heretofore incurable disease. The Daily Standard.

Friday, January 5, 1872. Party Government. The friends and advocates of Responsible Government have always claimed for it a superiority over other systems mainly on the ground that it is essentially a party system—that the public administration of affairs is more efficiently conducted by a government whose every act is closely watched and scrutized by an Opposition, whose chief object is to take advantage of any error that may be committed to dispossess them of power and take their places on the Treasury Benches, than is the case where the Heads of Departments hold office for a fixed period of time, or sub ject to the will and pleasure of the Governor for the time being. We have, however in our midst one at least who affects to believe, and is laboring to make others believe, that it would be not only appatrictic but a misfortune to the country, if the present Administration should encounter any opposition whatever from the people's representatives when the Legislature is called together. To the Colonist has been assigned the task of endeavoring to make it appear that to oppose the McCreight Cabinet is but to give rein to faction, retard the work of legislation, and thus inflict injury upon the country at large. Such special pleading becomes the organ of a Government whose head, tail and body consists of gentlemen of the legal profession. What good reason can be given why there should not be an Opposition in the Legislature when it meets? It is as our contemporary admits, the inevitable tendency of the system that there shall be one. We go farther, and contend that Responsible Government cannot be worked out in its integrity and with safety to the public interests, with out an Opposition. It is to the Government what a hair-spring is to a watch, it regulates its movements and gives it proper motion. The very best men are none the worse for being watched. On the contrary, when men are permitted to do pretty much as they please, and no restraint is put upon their actions, they are apt to become self-willed and overbearing. It is the business of an Opposition to see that the Government does its work-that the public welfare shall not be made subservient to the accomplishment of private interests, as is but too frequently the case where those who have the administration of public affairs enjoy undisputed authority, and are Janion, Rhodes & Co., uninfluenced by that wholesome dread of consequences inspired by the fact that they are watched by a vigilant Opposition who take note of every act and will call them to a strict account for every departure from the path of duty. Our contemporary labors hard to confound mere faction with legitimate opposition, and arrives at the conclusion that noth- Livery Stable, corner Johnson & Go ing short of a factious spirit can induce any member of the House to oppose the Ministry until they have had an opportunity to "evolve their principles." can see no reason why "the representatives of the people are to be drawn off into two hostile parties, the one being the Government and its followers, and the other the Opposition-the latter offering to the former a factious and unreasoning opposition, even before its policy has been announced or its prinles of action known," Before the Colonist sold itself to Messrs. McCreight & Co., it saw nothing whatever in the present Ministry to entitle it to public favor or support-it was the embodiment of weakness and worthlessness, and destined to be swept out of existence in less than a week after the House met. How, then, can it accuse those who oppose such a Government with being actuated by mere factious motives? Nay, it was a factious spirit that led to the installation of these gentlemen in the offices they now hold, and not any claim that they possessed to entitle them thereto; and is will be in the exercise of a patriotic daty, a vindication of the principles of justice and fair play, that the Legislature will pass jadgment upon them and relieve meets next month. It is not necessary that the action of the House should be stayed until they have a chance to evolve their principles and make known their policy. It is by their past, not their future, policy they should be judged. What services did they render to the country during those years of political conflict when both men and money were needed to carry on the contest against a system of government hateful to the people and inimical to their interests? Echo answers, What! The public are indebted to them neither for support or sympathy, and to suppos that such gentlemen are to be q e y permitted to step in and assume the rein of power, and reap the advantages of the change in public affairs brought about by the labors and sacrifices of others, is to assume that the Liberal party have ceased to exist or forfeited that spirit of manly independence which has in the years gone by characterized their move ments. Faction is one thing-legiti mate opposition is another thing. If inexperienced tyros in politics are placed in positions of trust and great responsibility, who six months ago were never heard of in connection with any political movement, who have no earthly claim PLUMMER & PAGDEN upon the public for their confidence and support, and the people's representatives decline to entrust the destinies of the country in their hands, they have but those to blame who placed them in such a false position. Such a government

nity to express its opinion upon the subject of their general incapacity.

They then shook hands, and concluded to Sheppard, correspondent of the Cincinnation of our reporter that, in the third round, the last two fingers on his left hand had been dislocated, which rendered his chief defence usecated, which rendered his chief defence use less. He further stated that he had received ten heavy blows over the left hip, which injured him materially, but would not have disabled him could he have used his left preumonia, 3,027 hand and arm. The utmost good feeling seemed established between the principals who were loud in commendation of each other's prowess, and no doubt delighted to get out of trouble so easily. This, then, appears to confirm the assertions made by the leading sporting men in this city, that the whole affair was a "put up" job between Mace and Coburn, who simply were hippodroming for the "gate money.

Cards for playing "sinch or poker;"
Pipes of brier and stems of cherry,
